POLICE PATROL

■ CLOSING TIME MEANS LYFT TIME - Around 2 a.m. on Saturday night, a Rochester officer paced a vehicle on University going over the speed limit. A traffic stop was made on the vehicle and the driver was investigated. The officer smelled an odor of intoxicants coming from and asked the driver, a woman from Rochester Hills, to perform several field sobriety tasks. She did so and the officer determined she failed them. The driver was given a PBT with the result of .16% BAC. She was arrested for OWI and taken to the Rochester Police Department and was held until sober. A warrant will be sought for the charge of OWI high BAC.

■ DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY - Deputies were dispatched to the 800 Block of Cobblestone Dr. in Rochester Hills on a report of possible domestic assault. The 911 caller, a 38-year-old woman, reported being locked in her bedroom and her soon to be ex-wife was attempting to break down the door with a hammer to get to her. Deputies arrived on scene and located the responsible female, a 49-year-old woman from Rochester, in the back yard of the home, where she was taken into custody. The victim reported she and her wife are in the process of a divorce and no longer reside together. Her wife had gained entry and she was not supposed to have. Once inside the home, the responsible caused thousands of dollars of damage to the interior. The responsible was transported to Crittenton Hospital for injuries sustained while damaging the interior of the home. Once medically cleared, she was transported to the Oakland County Jail.

■ COPS TIPPED OFF TO DRUNK DRIVER - Last Wednesday, a Rochester officer responded to a call from a motorist who was following a possible OWI driver swerving "all over the road." The officer observed the vehicle on University which made several infractions. The police officer made a traffic stop on the vehicle and investigated the driver, a woman from Shelby Township. The officer conducted several field sobriety tasks on the driver and determined she failed them. She was then given a PBT and it registered a .15% BAC. She was arrested for OWI, taken to the Rochester Police Department, was booked and processed and later released on a ticket for OWI and traffic infraction.

Rochester Hills man harasses two local mosques

On Monday, April 22, the Islamic Association of Greater Detroit in Rochester Hills called to report a suspicious person who came into the mosque, took off his shoes, sat down, and a few minutes later stood up and yelled, "You guys will go to hell. Jesus is God." The man, later identified as a 30-year-old resident of Rochester Hills, was asked to leave the premises. He got on a bicycle and rode west on Auburn toward Livernois while continuing to repeat the same phrase, "You guys will go to hell. Jesus is God." Police discovered that the same subject had gone to the Ahmadiyya Muslim Community Center in Rochester Hills the day before, where he asked to go inside to see the mosque. The man was told he would need an escort to see go inside of the mosque, so he said he would just look around the outside.

White at the Ahmadiyya Muslim Community Center, the man said he was interested in becoming a member of the mosque. According to a police press release, he was "wearing a large cross necklace and was approaching children and telling them they are practicing a fake religion." The man then entered a burgundy Mercury Sable and left the area. The mosque provided a video of both incidents and deputies were able to identify him. On Tuesday, a detective along with the subject's father sought to obtain a court order for mental health treatment. His father confirmed that his son had been diagnosed with a mental health disorder and was no longer taking his medication. The court order was obtained and he was picked up by deputies and transported to a local mental health care facility.

Broomfield memorial service to be held at the Rochester Hills Museum at Van Hoesen Farm

The Rochester Hills Museum at Van Hoesen Farm will host a memorial service for retired U.S. Congressman William S. Broomfield on Sunday, April 28 at 4 p.m. Guests are requested to RSVP to the Museum to assist with planning for seating and parking. Broomfield, an 18-term congressman, died earlier this year on February 20. He was born on April 28, 1922 and raised in Royal Oak. After serving in the Army Air Corp. during World War II, he returned to Michigan to begin his career. He won his first election at age 26 for the Michigan State Legislature by 80 votes. He ran for two more terms and was elected speaker pro tem before his election to the Michigan State Senate in 1954. Two years later, he left Lansing to serve in the U.S. House of Representatives until his retirement in 1993.

WILLIAM S. BROOMFIELD

He served 32 years on the House Foreign Affairs Committee and was heavily involved with the nation's foreign policy throughout the Cold War. His reputation as a consensus builder was respected on both sides of the aisle and he received numerous awards for foreign policy achievements. Despite his focus on world affairs, he felt his most important vote was for the Civil Rights Act of 1964. He was a member of the Capitol Hill Club and several service organizations. Broomfield was also awarded the 33rd degree of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry. He was married to his wife, Jane, for 62 years. He leaves behind two daughters, Nancy Aiken and Barbara Shaffer and four grandchildren, Case, Christina, Stephen, and Lindsay. In lieu of flowers, a donation to the Broomfield Leadership Center at the Rochester Hills Museum would be appreciated. Donations can be sent to the Rochester Hills Museum or given online at rochesterhills.org/museum/.
